I live in Wanborough and don't think that merging Pilgrims and Shalford makes sense. The villages within Pilgrims are a community which has little in common with Shalford. I would also suggest that having a multi member ward would not work well as it takes time to travel across the area as the main roads run north to south. If a resident wants to meet with a councillor from a particular party the travel time will be a significant issue, If it is necessary to increase the number of electors then adding Compton to Pilgrims would be a sensible compromise. Shalford would have more in common with the Holy Trinity area. I would like to see an expanded Pilgrims ward with a single councillor.
