I don't believe in having one councillor overseeing or looking after 3 wards is sustainable or practical. Steve Radford has done an outstanding job in our area along with his team for many years and to damage that working ethos with the people of the various wards where they have that connection with their own councillors in my considered opinion is madness. They are always appear to be hair brained schemes thought up by those who think they know better and don't have people/constituents best interests at the heart of these schemes. Its not always a good think to reinvent the wheel when it os not broken. I can only think this is someway of trying to save money, the old saying is pay cheap, pay twice and that means good decent services by local councillors to their local wards will be lost forever when they are most needed than ever before.
