Comment text:

I think it is a brilliant proposal, less councillors is good at the time where communication with people is great either through Facebook, internet or mobile phone it is easy for the voter to get in touch. If you think back to 1974 not everybody had a phone in there house and the councillor lived in the community but know councillors live in other areas they are representing which to me is wrong but they say it is in the rules So therefore making the boundaries equal with voters is fine and if we lose a councillor it is not a great loss just more money to go in coal projects.
