I feel this is a golden opportunity to introduce wards of equal size (by population) with the same number of councillors per wards, probably 13 x 3. Counter argument would be that this is not possible to do and keep natural communities together, however the current boundaries do not keep natural communities. For example properties on one side of Derby Road are included in Hasland Ward but parts of Storforth Lane which residents regard as Hasland are in St Leonard's Ward. I cannot think of any boundaries within Chesterfield that match the edge of estates other than the external border of Chesterfield Borough.
