My principle interest is in the changes to Hanover and Elm Grove (HEG). I cannot make much sense of the proposed swaps between ourselves and Queen's Park. The area of St. Luke's to be moved from Queen's Park to HEG could be in either HEG or Queen's Park. On the other hand, residents on the Phoenix Estate have been heavily involved in campaigns relating to HEG in general, and Hanover in particular. You cite vehicle access. All you have done is to swap access/lack of access at one end for the same problem at the other end. Since, in any case, very few Phoenix residents have cars to begin with, the question does not seem very relevant; least of all at a time of climate emergency, when encouraging car ownership should be no priority at all. If there is a choice between gaining part of St. Luke's and losing The Phoenix, then losing The Phoenix feels like too high a price to pay for the ward in general and for the residents of the estate in particular. I suspect also that Queen's Park will likely have something to say about the proposed swap. As you yourselves observe, in terms of numbers, it really does not make a enough difference to be significant. I have no comment to make on the Lewes Road Gyratory - an area which is pretty much cut off from anywhere else anyway.
