Having lived in [REDACTED], I believe that drawing the new boundary of Regency ward down the middle of Upper North St does the residents there a disservice: their concerns are characterized by living in, rather than next to, a busy urban environment. In Regency, their electoral candidates will respond to and represent these concerns. In the suburban, Seven Dials etc. ward, issues arising from the role of the area in hosting so many shoppers and visitors will not be felt in the same way. The new boundary may be neatly drawn, but it would ignore the geographical, economic and social divide created by the steep hill at whose base Upper North St. lies. It would reduce the value of those residents' votes. I urge you to move the boundary to the bottom of Clifton Place and Victoria St., and perhaps Montpelier St., too, and include both sides of Upper North St. in the new Regency ward.
