Comment text:

I object to the division of Patcham into two parts, the west to join Westdene and east to join Hollingbury. Westdene and Hollingbury have entirely different characteristics to Patcham of which the Mackie estate has been a historical integral part. Councillors would inevitably be chiefly concerned with their larger electorate in Hollingbury and Westdene. Patcham residents deserve to have councillors who know and respond to their issues. If this results in a smaller electorate with fewer councillors this would be more acceptable than fracturing the ward in this way. I hope you will take into account the concern of a Patcham resident since 1964
