Comment text:

As a Patcham resident, I feel strongly that the proposal splitting Patcham into two is completely wrong. The area where I live (Mackie Avenue) becomes subsumed into Hollingbury and Carden, whereas we feel we are part of the whole community of Patcham, from schools and churches, through to shops and community groups (including the local history group). We have no community connection with either Carden or Hollingbury. The division line runs right through the heart of the Ladies Mile and Mackie estates, which have been established parts of Patcham since the 1930s.
