I totally disagree with the change of boundaries. Just because there is a twitten (which in winter by the way is treacherous) does not mean it's an easy walk from where we live over to Carden. I hear 'as the crow flies a lot' but my children don't fly they walk and we are talking about a 10 minutes vs a 25-30 minute walk which in the winter is not safe. With the change on boundaries, all children along mackie avenue (which has one way in and one way out of you are in the car) would not be offered a place at Patcham infants or juniors which is disgraceful. What I find most upsetting is these decisions are being made by people that are not going to be affected by the changes. This needs to be stopped.
