The split of boundaries within the wynyard village area between Hartlepool and Stockton councils is nonsensical with a small number of wynyard village houses being within Hartlepool due to a boundary running down a country park! The A689 which divides wynyard park and wynyard village would make a much more sensible boundary thus also allowing wynyard and Elwick parish councils to adequately represent their parishes. Currently it is highly confusing even on certain streets as to who is in what council area (sheepdene is the classic example with both councils operating in the same road!) Can we please have some common sense and move the council boundary using the A689 as the split between Hartlepool and Stockton council boundaries.
