I am opposed to the change ,, i believe that moving the boundaries is purely a political move to let certain parties gain a voting advantage in areas the do not control ... the proposed move have nothing to do with the welfare of residents . i believe that the villages around Southam would be better if joined together to make a greater Southam conurbation, as all the villages and Southam town would have a more distinct identity , at the moment these smaller settlements are short changed when it comes to care and attention from the larger towns in the area whose main objective seems to be attracting the tourist pound (£). As a smaller conurbation Southam and the villages could manage their own affairs without the current overriding tourism preoccupation of the larger towns .
