Comment text:

We have far too many layers of government and far too many councillors, especially in Blyth and Ashington. All of these councillors cost us, the taxpayers, money which in the current climate must be looked at. All government departments should be looking at making cuts and local councils need to do the same. I believe local council boundaries are based on the number of constituents and that all areas have approx the same. Personally I don't believe this is a necessary requirement so areas could be enlarged in order to reduce the number required.
