Comment text:

The boundary Commission proposal is much too big to be effective & convenient, with 11 separate parish areas for councillors to represent. The enormous proposed developments outside of Baldock into this proposed new ward will be an extension of the urban area which has entirely different interest and character to the rural areas. The proposed ward will lead to a failure of representation of urban residents who will be separated from their community in Baldock. At the same time it would fail the rural residents as the majority of the ward's residents will be in the new urban areas. The approach proposed by North Herts District Council will provide better electoral equality and better representation than that recommended by the Electoral Commission.
