This all seems a bit nebulous - too little information. There are currently 42 councillors and you are proposing 42 councillors as far as I can see. As I understand it, this consultation has an aim of evening up the nos of residents each group of councillors for a ward would represent. It would therefore be useful to have a rough indication of what the numbers are currently to make an informed response. Also information on some characteristics of each ward - maybe presented in some form of comparison table, together with population. This would help busy people who do not have the time to research each ward individually to be better able to make a valid response. Please remember that whilst urban areas are much more highly populated than rural ones, rural areas have very specific and different issues - care must be taken with this if based on population numbers that rural areas are not left with reduced representation and less councillors fighting their corner. Also there must be a mind to future development. An area like Tandridge Parish - whilst currently a relatively low density population, if a 4000 house Garden Village gets developed there, the population in that area will explode, but as a result of a poor decision on this consultation will be left with relatively little representation.
