My colleague Cllr Kevin Parker and I are very pleased indeed with the proposals made by the commission for the former Brixworth Ward with some additions on the margins.

To have one councillor for Brixworth is just perfect as it can sit on its own, it is so different from all the surrounded small villages and hamlets.

To have divided the rural part of the ward along nearly the A508 is equally a judicious partition. You manage to put together a good cluster of villages that have the same issues. Walgrave and Old would fit well in the new East Farndon/walgrave ward as indeed Guilsborough in the Naseby one.

Naseby is the right choice for the name as everyone in Northamptonshire should know where Naseby is.

The name for Walgrave/East Farndon is a more cumbersome but due to the myriad of small villages without one standing out, to have chosen the " extreme geographic villages" is a good compromise.

So to recap : well done as the three single wards would bring better cohesion and democracy to the residents.
