Comment text:

I fail to see the need for so many councillors in a town the size of Gateshead. At a time when services are being cut due to lack of money, why should we not save some money by reducing the number of elected representatives? Most people consider that having the grass cut or potholes filled in is more important than having an excessively large council. We already have a high Council Tax burden compared to other places. I think that the same cuts that we are all facing should be also applied to the council chamber.
