I don't agree with the proposed boundary line changes. What is the sense in having 2 councils involved in a tiny little village? It is confusing, nobody will know who their council is and nobody understands the point of it. The councillors do very little for their community so why increase/decrease them? It does not help the constituents in these places. Just another waste of tax payers money which should be getting spent on our schools/healthcare and police services! Or better still put the council tax down to help already struggling constituents. Absolute load of rubbish
