I would like to object to the proposal to separate New Hartley, which is a small village, into separate council areas. This idea is ridiculous as we are a small village only a mile or so and to split into Two separate communities is insane. Apart from anything else the area has been part of Seaton Valley for a long time and should stay that way. The changes could cause problems with mis coordinating planned works between the two councils, and possible disputes about which Council is responsible for which area along the boundary, and things not getting done. This Will impact the residents of the village substantially. A more sensible course of action would be to just keep the village together and have one it as a whole in one council or another.
