Related subject: Nash part of Clee ED

I object to the parish of Nash being moved into the Cleobury Mortimer division for local council representation on Shropshire County Council. I very rarely go to Cleobury Mortimer some 8 miles away and that area generally. I do not think it appropriate to be included in that division. I centre on Burford/Tenbury Wells, 2.5 miles away, for all my household and recreational needs. My main route of travel is along Clee Hill Road to Burford/Clee village and then to Ludlow beyond for a larger town. I think it is important that our areas share common representation at local government level to maintain our community identity and effective local government. I identify with the Clee division as it currently stands and do not have any allegiance to Cleobury Mortimer other than to visit the Chiropractor once! I would identify more with Ludlow than Cleobury Mortimer. I urge you to retain Nash within the Clee division as Nash has stronger ties with that division. Kind regards
