Related subject: Moving Jacobs Well from Worplesdon to North Guildford

I totally disagree with moving Jacobs Well from Worplesdon to North Guildford. Jacobs Well is a small, residential but rural community/village, very similar to Wood Street and Fairlands. It has very close links to Worplesdon Parish Council (of which I was a past councillor) and contributes to the parish. It has no heavy industry or council dwellings so is totally different in make-up to North Guildford (which includes Slyfield and Bellfields) so has totally different needs and issues. I feel that these needs/issues would get lost/ignored if Jacobs Well was moved into an enlarged North Guildford. This should not be just a numbers game - it should still be a case of looking after the characteristics of the residents. Jacobs Well is better suited to rural Worplesdon than a revised urban North Guildford so do not change the boundary. Let common sense prevail - not pure numbers. As you can imagine I (and the residents of Jacobs Well) feel very passionate about this.
