I cannot imagine any proposition more divisive to a longstanding community than to arbitrarily draw a line through that community and decide that their village no longer exists. I have lived in Oxshott and been part of its community for close on 50 years, I am proud of the community that I am part of and to see it disappear would be an unparalleled tragedy. At a time of austerity, rising costs and local councils going bankrupt there must be better ways to spend public money than to change something for the sake of change, seemingly on a whim with maximum damage to those affected. Our village has changed from a once bucolic quiet backwater to an invaded part of Britain's transport system in great part due to the relief of those living closer to the metropolis. The combination of the Esher bypass to relieve Esher and Cobham and the M25 to relieve Central London has culminated in the desecration and quality of village life over the last 30 years to now remove the actual name of Oxshott is the final coup de grace. I already feel that Oxshott is at the end of the queue for any borough benefits whether it be our roads, footpaths, lighting or general care. I beg you not to take this matter any further and to bury it, never to be unearthed again.
