The current arrangements of the Hinchley Wood, Claygate and Oxshott division work well with electoral equality and I see no compelling reason need for them to be changed. I note that Surrey County Council saw no need for change either and their proposal to make very minor changes is sensible and acceptable.

The proposals from the Liberal Democrats have not taken into account community identity as demonstrated by proposing to split Weston Green from the joint Thames Ditton and Weston Green Residents' Association. To the best of my knowledge neither they, nor indeed the Molesey RA, consulted any local groups to discuss community identity before submitting their proposal. I see this as a clear case of gerrymandering. I sincerely hope that this attempt will be seen for what it is and the proposal rejected. Should it even be being considered? It is my view that the SCC proposal should be adopted.
