I completely disagree with the proposal to split long Ditton and Thames Ditton and align long Ditton with Hinchley wood.

There's absolutely no benefit in doing this and will just result in unnecessary cost and upheaval. There's no problem between the two areas so why does the boundary commission want to create one? Total waste of time and money.

The two Ditton communities have a lot in common have and been linked since the Middle Ages. there is harmony between the two communities which are closely linked by schools, friends and families, as well geographic proximity. They work closely together on a number of matters so splitting will gain nothing.

Suggest that this proposal be rejected as honestly can't believe that someone believes this is a good idea as it goes against the The Boundary Commission's role which I understand is to consider three main criteria:

- Electoral equality
- Community identity and interests
- Effective and convenient local government
