I am writing to you to whole heartily appose the suggested recommendations of LGBCE for the way they wish to 'split' the community of Oxshott. The village of Oxshott has a population of circa 5000+ residents, defined by its surrounding Green Belt, its own high street, medical centre, schools and named railway station. The suggestion for dividing the community in half, with a "draw the line down the middle of the main road" approach has no justification.

Removing the villages name, Oxshott, removes the concept of community, disrespects its residents, and only appears "convenient" to suit LGBCE's objectives.

I strongly suggest that LGBCE revise their recommendations on the basis they wish to "ensure that recommendations reflect community identity". I do not feel amending boundaries would reflect this ethos, and they should allow Oxshott to continue as part of the division of Hinchley Wood, Claygate and Oxshott.
