Good Afternoon

Tutnall and Cobley Parish Council has the following concerns regarding the proposed new electoral arrangements for Worcestershire County Council:

- We feel that the boundary changes do not make sense and Tutnall and Cobley Parish will not have adequate representation from 2 councillors, which in turn will break up community cohesion.
- As a parish we do not identify with Alvechurch or Wythall, as we have closer links with the rural communities of Bromsgrove East.
- Cllr Taylor has represented us for many years and has been very supportive of the Parish Council and Tardebigge Community Hall. We feel that the proposed new electoral arrangements will lead to the loss of funding for the Community Hall and we feel that he has an affinity with the area, which the other 2 councillors would not .
- We understand that these changes are proposed to incorporate the Foxlydiate development. However, we are not convinced that this will be delivered in the near future anyway, The slow build out of the Foxlydiate area, means that the boundary commission should take it into consideration at the next review.
