I am expressing views on the current review of Swindon's Ward Boundaries.

The existing ward boundaries divide Wichelstowe which I think is very divisive. Half of Wichelstowe is part of the urban area of Swindon but is in a Ward with Wroughton which is a semi-rural satellite town with its own identity. Wroughton and Wichelstowe are divided by the M4 and have no common links. East Wichel has much more in common with Middle and West Wichel and they share amenities together. It would seem much more sensible if Wroughton was in a rural ward together with Chiseldon and other rural communities and Wichelstowe stayed together as one ward- perhaps combined with Rushey Platt and possibly some of Old Town.
