Here in North Sefton we feel that we do not have any local representation. There is nothing in common with South Sefton and North Sefton and here the number of representatives on the council are way outnumbered by the representatives for South Sefton to the effect that North Sefton (the area from Hightown to Crossens) effectively have no say whatsoever in the running of their area and everything is voted down by the South end council officers. Before the 1974 local government re-organisation the old Southport Borough was a thriving community and now all the money goes to South Sefton and is wasted on petty political items and now Southport has become a broken run down town solely because of the Sefton greed. We need the North Sefton/Southport area - with a possibly to include Banks and even Tarleton to be a separate Merseyside Borough as if not the once beautiful area and town will become another casualty and become a ghost town.
