Related subject: Evesham,the Lenches and Inkberrow

I have been a resident of Evesham for the last 50+years and very active in the cultural and educational life of the town.I have never particularly experienced many shared activities between the residents and business people of the town and the rural areas which stretch to the north.

The yoking together of Evesham town centre and the Greenhill area to villages such as those in the Lenches up as far as Inkberrow seems to me to be totally artificial and does not respect either local tradition or current interests.
