I disagree with the transfer of the streets around Wombwell Train Station: Wood Walk, Hemmingfield Road, and Dovecliffe Road into Hoyland Milton: They are continuous parts of Wombwell and have a local identity within Wombwell, they are not served or represented by a member for Hoyland Milton who would focus on issues in Hoyland with the main bulk of their voterbase being there. These areas are relatively isolated geographically from Hoyland, and form part of the Wombwell urban area and the Wombwell principal town area. People here would not even realise they're in the "Hoyland" ward when they live in Wombwell, especially on such an isolated fringe of the proposed ward. The residents of these streets would not feel represented by a move to Hoyland Milton. It would be more best to retain them within the Wombwell ward.
