I am sending this on behalf of my mum Norma Royston of Eldwick who does not have internet use. Eldwick should be kept as it's own village and within Bingley which it always has been. It should not be split between a town it is linked to and accessible to with public transport and not to another village which has no public transport to link it with. People of Eldwick have always used Bingley Drs surgeries and children always went to secondary schools in Bingley. We have always had strong links with Bingley. Before Eldwick church (formerly St. Lawrence's) was built in 1893, Eldwick people used All Saints in Bingley for their service's. We have always used Bingley for our shopping and would never think of going to Baildon (even when I could drive). I have lived in Eldwick for 70 years and would hate to see Eldwick split like is being proposed. It is a ridiculous idea!
