I'm writing to oppose plans to divide bingley into bingley west and bingley east - having 2 separate areas, which use ALL of the same amenities will only cause delays in getting things sorted. It's a lot more effective and efficient having 3 councillors for the whole town, rather than various councillors for 2 separate parts that are connected (it's not like there's a literal divide so why put one in?) Bingley has a lot of history and character and should not be split up with differing opinions and priorities - those who are elected should be able to be the spokesperson for all of it, otherwise cohesion across the town will be difficult.
