Campbell Park Community Council (CPCC) have considered the current review being undertaken and favour the status quo being maintained across the four Wards that cover its area, with the associated boundaries remaining unchanged. When considering the matter CPCC identified the importance of retaining the sense of place in its area that has been established over multiple decades. It was also important to CPCC to avoid the unnecessary splitting of established communities in its area. Another reason for CPCC supporting the continuation of the existing boundary arrangements is that they allow for maximum diversity in terms of political representation across the CPCC area, redefining the boundaries could result in more polarised situation. Finally, with twelve Ward Members across its area, CPCC values the opportunity to work with as many of them as possible, this option could be reduced if the Ward boundaries were altered.

For the above reasons, CPCC supports the continuation of the existing Ward boundaries covering its area.
