I may be too late to comment on this as I've only just discovered the proposals

I am a resident of Freshney Ward

I am not able to deduce the rationale for the proposed break up of this Ward. Names may not matter I suppose but, put simply, if you can assert an identity for one ward, e.g. Yarborough, then there must be an equally (but not less) identity for any other.

It seems to me that a Ward, identified by the river running through it, is a sound geographical start and the communities of both Wybers Wood/Aylesbury Park and the Willows are sufficiently longstanding and adjacent to keep them as a whole together.

This summary looks sound against whatever are the actual arguments in favour of the abolition.

Thank you
