Related subject: Appleton

There has been considerable housing development around Appleton and Appleton Thorn which is currently a single ward. It is geographically a large ward with varying physical areas and population variations.

Given the south of Warrington is expected to see the largest population growth through the local plan over the next decade, it would make most sense to divide Appleton Ward and increase the local councillors.

I would also suggest sepsrting Grappenhall and Lymm North to account for the population growth over the coming years
