I don't understand the need to review the ward boundaries as such. I thought there would be some indication of where the boundaries would change. I am struggling to form a view as there is no information to provide me with a starting point on what the proposals are. I am happy with the current arrangements. I suppose if the boundaries were to change where I live, I would like to know what the consequences may be? Would any changes impact on me detrimentally, would there be no change or could this improve things in my area? That would help me form an opinion. On another note, I would like the commission to think about how the ward boundaries would fit with the new neighbourhood model that the Integrated Care Board and NHS partners are working on currently. Aligning to this model would be beneficial. Important to work in partnership rather than in silos on decisions such as this, especially as there is an ultimate impact for the community. Also consider how the council work with wards in terms of data, how would this impact on what the wider council and partners do. I work within the Public Health team in WBC as well as being a resident, this could impact on the work we all do.
