Comment text:

York council is ineffective in serving its citizens - particularly those who are longer term citizens , ie living in the city 10 years plus. University influence is damaging . Too many pet projects which drain resources from the “bread and butter” jobs that need doing to maintain the city. Consultations don’t engage the right people. There is a bullying culture amongst council staff right across the board who hide behind banners such as EDI, City of Sanctuary and all manner of ideology. This bullying spills over onto the public they are there to serve as well as internally. The amount of councillors is ridiculous and unaffordable. Many don’t respond to requests off their constituents anyway - only picking up what supports their own pet projects.
