The proposal to split the Derwenthorpe Estate into three wards does not make sense to me. Derwenthorpe is newish JRHT estate and has a common design. There is a strong identity on the estate because of its district heating, residents association, governance group shared with JRHT. There are issues that affect Derwenthorpe as an estate (heating, internet provision, community facilities) which need to be considered in a united way - and would be very inefficient if 3 wards were involved. Councillors from 3 different wards would need to be up to speed and represent the estate - even though it was only a part of their wider responsibilities. Obviously Derwenthorpe needs to be part of a larger ward but this should be one ward not three.
