I live on the eastern part of St Aelreds Mews, with the new plan looking to include this area into the Heworth Without ward. Road access is mentioned in the planning docs and I should point out that St Aelreds Mews has no vehicle road access through to Meadlands Mews or onwards into Meadlands or Heworth. The St Aelreds Mews area of the estate is only accessible via Derwent Way which itself is only accessible from 5th Avenue, Tang Hall.

I can probably count on one hand, having lived here since the house was build 6 years ago, the number of times I have traversed into the Heworth area.

I could not count how many times I travel through Tang Hall both south to Hull Road and North.

In general, Derwenthorpe is a very cohesive community and it seems an odd choice to split it up at all. Has it been considered that it could become its own ward?
