As a resident of Heslington village for the past 35 years I am uncomfortable about the proposed boundary changes which would bring the village into the orbit of the university. I welcome the presence of the university on my doorstep but have no wish to become part of it in any way. I did not choose to live here with a view to be under the influence of the academic world. I speak as a graduate from another university and hold York in full respect. However I have no wish to be involved in their academic activities or decisions - they have nothing to do with my life. In short I wish my village independence to be maintained.
