Comment text:

If Basildon already has 42 councillors - which hasn't changed for a long time, and the aim is to keep 42 councillors - isn't this review a complete waste of money? Or is this being done to shift the voter balance in the wards to better support one particular party? In which case leave well alone - it's biased enough as it is. If on the other hand it is to more evenly shift the voter balance to a more 50/50 basis - then give us more details of what is being suggested. The amount of information to date has been lacking, which does not make contributing to a consultation very easy if you are totally unaware of what you are being consulted about
