Comment text:

I assume the borough current boundaries were created to give each ward a similar population at the time they were established. Ward new boundaries should reflect change in population since they were established and any planned housing developments in the future as reflected in the Fareham Plan. I do not believe most residents are concerned about in which ward they are located, but if the population of a ward increased to a level that made contact with the Councillors difficult due to his work load that would be an issue.
