Currently the wards seem to be reasonably equal with regard to residents within, which you can never maintain totally equally - if any balancing out needs to be done, that can be achieved. But you must be mindful of people's affinity to their named neighbourhood, e.g. moving roads out of Pitsea into Vange, or Billericay East into Crouch. The geographical boundaries of Crouch seem strange but there may be some good reasoning behind that - if not, moving the western part of Crouch into Burstead would seem logical. Other than that, I can't see people objecting to any changes from Billericay East/West or Pitsea SE/NW to accommodate a rebalancing of numbers within.
