As a new resident of Queenhill I am struggling to see any sense in the proposal to combine this area with Ripple. I understand that historically the two parishes were combined but that was when there was a regular ferry crossing the Severn. If you were to reinstate the ferry or build a bridge there might be some logic to to it, but at present the only link is through Upton. We share nothing in common with Ripple apart from the river which divides us. We have much in common with Longdon so logic dictates you leave the boundary as it is. [REDACTED].
