I was really upset to hear that the commission considers Hallow should be lumped in with Lower Broadheath. It's bad enough that our village has seen a huge influx of housing destroying the fields and character of the village and bringing a huge increase in traffic with no additional facilities but at least it's not been subjected to the vast quantity of new housing that has been seen in Lower Broadheath. I'm sure some of this is due to the Parish council of Hallow working hard to try to keep Hallow as a village and not an extension of St Johns. I would be horrified to think that the people who allowed the destruction of the "village" of Lower Broadheath would have any say in Hallow. It's vitally important that Hallow continues to have councillors who understand the needs of Hallow and it's residents. If any joining is needed I would think Grimley, Holt Heath, Stinton Green would be much more appropriate to come together with Hallow as they at least understand the needs of a village. Once a village has been destroyed there is no going back so please don't let Hallow be destroyed any further.
