Lawley Village has grown into its own community. It has its own identity which is different to the wards that it is currently attached to. This becomes a problem when we are trying to organise things specific for Lawley, there are always draw backs from the local councillors. Lawley has its own identity because it is a community of charge payers, it has natural boundaries due to the A roads and the M54 motorway. Having its own ward will give Lawley community the feeling of togetherness, having its own schools and shopping square. I think that Lawley having the boundaries as drafted would only add to making Lawley a great place to live and work.
