I can only speak for my area in the current Littleover Ward, but while the ward is expected to grow to 25% larger than some other wards, there are no obvious areas to transfer without bisecting some part of the local community. Personally I am unsure why there is a need to move from the current wards. They may not be perfect, but they are reasonably equally distributed. Any change to boundaries could be seen as gerrymandering and therefore there should be a very strong reason for any changes, and in my opinion a small difference in population sizes of wards would be insufficient (especially considering the biggest impact on local elections is the turnout, which varies far more than the ward sizes do).
