Comment text:

I have lived in Drakes Broughton for 40+ years and know its people well. Our connections are strong with Stoulton and we regard ourselves as belonging with the villages around Pershore. Norton is inaccessible and remote for people without cars, and Whittington is almost a foreign land. It is part of Worcester whereas DB is definitely most strongly linked to Pershore and the country around. We have no desire to be lumped in to a 2 member ward which will then become larger and more urban as the new Parkway 'town' is developed. That area is separated from DB by Stoulton , yet that village is slipped into a rural ward to the north while we are expected to manage with councillors who will no doubt view us as an appendage to the urban sprawl SE of Worcester. It is clear enough to me that Drakes Broughton is large enough to have its own councillor, and should certainly not be lumped in with Whittington, which will have entirely different concerns to ours. We are a growing but distinct community and should retain our separate representation.
