Comment text:

The creation of a new ward of Southam East, Central and Stockton makes no sense only in terms of getting the right balance of electors numbers. Stockton is essentially rural in character but the other two are more urban with different demographics, facilities, transport networks, schooling, policing, infrastructure such as water, electricity supply, etc. In the past we have been linked with Napton and Long Itchington and this seemed to work well. Linking with Southam carries the risk that Stockton's essentially rural issues will not be given due weight. This is much more important than getting equal elector numbers in all wards.
