Great Comberton, Little Comberton, Bricklehampton and Elmley Castle have shared worship in a parish for many years. Many villagers have sent their children to be educated in the village school in Elmley Castle and the residents from the four villages actively support events in the neighbouring villages. The new proposals have a flagrant disregard for the community which has been effectively divided in to three separate wards. The lines appear to be arbitrary and based on an attempt to average out numbers in the ward rather than having any regard for existing communities. If this proposal is approved, voting in local elections would totally disregard the wishes of the tied community in three disparate wards. If a change is required then I would request you ensure the boundaries of existing communities are respected as part of the process.
