I would like to make it known that i am totally against wychavon district councils proposed boundary changes to Dovedale park homes rural status and making us urban as we are the only residents who have been asked to comment on these proposals as the only other place this proposal affects is an industrial estate .

My concerns with us becoming urban is that the impact of our voice will be lost within town /district /county council

Becoming part of droitwich urban area will have implications regarding

1 new planning applications

2 new rates of council tax

3 less representations of councilors

Not only along with the above there are other ways this will have an effect on the residents of Dovedale park

1 number of councilor's reduced from 7 to 2

2 we would lose direct access to county council and district council representatives who currently attend the Parrish council

3 this would mean our voice would be lost within the 26 members of the district council and this would have a profound impact on any future planning applications

So, this is the very reason it is important that we keep our rural status .

I would also like to add that we the residents of Doverdale park have a received a letter informing us that an application has been put in to build 102 new houses on the field adjoining the park home site

i hope this is taken into consideration when making your decision

regards
